The Cigarette.

I never see a foolish boy puffing away at a poisonous cigarette without recalling a visit I once paid a cigarette factory. Whew! I wouldn't write—or, rather, you wouldn't dare print what I saw. Dirty butts of cigars fresh from the filth of the muddy streets are the cleanest and nicest of the material used in compiling these precious roads to ruin. Cigarette smoking is a dangerous vice, for it grows upon one. There was a time when cigarette smoking was confined almost entirely to Cubans, who knew what good tobacco was and made their own cigarettes. Gradually the habit spread. Dealers followed suit. Makers became unscrupulous. Little dirty boys were sent out to pick up cigar stumps. Other equally disgusting material was also utilized. Opium was made to do duty. Cheap paper took the place of rice paper. I wish boys could see the stuff their paper is made from. Wouldn't it turn their little stomachs? I trow, I trow. The cheap paper, the old stumps, the opium and the chemicals used to make them "strong" deserve to be shown up. Parents have no influence with their sons. Why not? Because they smoke cigars and pipes themselves. The boys charge all the good advice they get to their fathers' desire to keep them down. There is but one way to deal with American boys. Reason with them through their eyes. If every nicotine stomach was made public, if every time a fellow died of too much cigarette the fact was made known, if the proud boys could be shown a rag factory and a stump grindery, it seems to me the cigarette business would be wound up very soon. This is one of my hobbies; I wish it were that of everybody.
